Executive Summary

We see a substantial development of internet users every year. Now e-business among individuals has become very common. Amazon, Alibaba, for most individuals in Bangladesh. Flipkart are not ideas that are alien. We have a lot of e-commerce enterprises like BD button, bikroy.com, ekhanei.com, daraz.com.bd, Kaymu, Hungry naki etc.

This report contains the overall organizational view of Daraz Bangladesh. Online e-commerce is the growing industry now, the report shows the current industry trend along with the present condition of Daraz. I was assigned as an intern of Vender Excellence Department, where I used to manage the seller’s account of Daraz Bd. In this report, many other things will be noticed ranging from the Daraz business model to the Daraz marketing strategy. They are trying to make their services better than ever. Throughout my report, I have collected data from various employees, and departments of Daraz and various websites to get a proper analysis of the report.

This report covers the organizational analysis of Daraz. Though e-commerce sector is booming and yet a very new industry, people are getting more and more dependent on it. But the online business organizations are not performing up to the mark. It is high time for Daraz to improve their services to sustain in the long run and to hold its position as the market leader. The recommendations are also given based on the drawbacks that they have and if they could apply those in real life it could be helpful for them in the long run. Being a leading e-commerce company of Bangladesh, it has a potential future and we will see different sides and aspects of this company in this report.

1.1 Background of the Study

I’m inquisitive in this context because we all understand the word “E-Commerce” but few of us understand precisely what it really means. Essentially, it is a market place which situated in online. It demonstrates that by reviewing the product description and picture, a client can view and order a product online. There are also vendors who are going to sell their products in this platform via online. Time is more precious than anything in this increasing economic sector. So now a day an individual doesn’t not get that much time to go for shopping physically. Compare to those of physical markets’ customers can see the items and order it by sitting in his or her residence. So, we can say that there are more opportunity and growth in e-commerce industry then we think.

Before that Bangladesh now has extra prospective clients. Sellers therefore, understand very well that merely having physical presence will not ensure the purchase right reach. Therefore, as we all understand within e-commerce locations, they are prepared to hit the internet platform for sale. Currently, however, many shoppers are facing several issues such as looking out and browsing internet merchandise and analyzing all merchandise in order to promote the greatest value with fitted quality. To loosen this downside and ensure that Daraz Bangladesh takes the highest quality measures.

Daraz is an online business platform that can be operated through computer, laptop, tab and android cell phones with the connection of internet. There are 2 types of portals-

- Seller Center (seller’s portal): This is the back-end portal where sellers upload their products with price, manage their products, manage orders, manage store, use promotional tools, join campaign, and manage their finance.

- Online Portal: (customer’s portal): When the sellers upload any product from their back-end portal that becomes live or visible in the online portal after QC (Quality Control) verification. Once the product becomes live in the online portal, customers can see the product in Daraz website (https://www.daraz.com.bd/) and can make orders.

Now we can make an assumption from the business mode diagram shown above that how Daraz does business by using these two portals. Daraz mainly operates in ‘Business to Consumer’ business model. It also operates in ‘Business to Business’ business model but in a very limited aspect.

Daraz basically doesn’t have its own products, it is mainly an online intermediary that links sellers and buyers through its online business portal.

3.1 Revenue Model

The sellers with interest to do business with Daraz first make an agreement on Daraz business policy and commission. Commission varies depending on the product’s category. When a customer orders any product from any particular seller through Daraz portal then the seller packs the product and sends it to Daraz hub or Wearhouse near him. It is told to the sellers to make the ordered product ready to ship within 24 hours (at maximum 48 hours) so that Daraz can make the delivery complete within a short period of time to ensure faster delivery.

When Daraz gets the ordered product from seller, then Daraz sends it to the customer either with its own delivery man or through third party logistics. Once customer gets the product in hand, they make the payment through either cash on delivery or they can also make the payment directly through “Bkash” while making the order. The customer also has to bear the delivery charge and the delivery man takes it from the customer when the product is delivered to the customer.

Once the product is delivered to the customer then Daraz takes the agreed determined commission from the selling price and sends the remaining portion of the money to the seller’s bank account. This is how Daraz is doing business in the market.

3.2 Value Proposition

Daraz offers value to two different groups-

i. To customers: People are getting busy these days and becoming more and more dependent on internet. Now they can’t even manage time for shopping. Even if they have time for shopping, they don’t have that energy or willingness to physical store and shop for them. So now as they are using internet and Daraz is also serving customers through internet, people can buy anything they want from Daraz by placing online order. In this way customers can get the following benefits-

- Save time: As, they don’t have to go to physical store and search for the product they want. They can buy the product they want sitting from home.

- Save money: If customer buy the intended item from home, he can save the conveyance bill to some extent as Daraz only take 45-60 Taka as delivery charge. If the customer would go to physical store to purchase then he might have spent more than 60 Taka and if he wouldn’t find the product in that particular shop then he also might have to go to somewhere else to purchase the product. On the other hand, there is 20% instant cashback if the customer makes payment in ‘Bkash’.

- Save physical and mental energy: As the customer is not going to physical store, he/she won’t have to move outside in this adverse weather and traffic. So, he/she doesn’t have to take the hassle and can be relaxed physically and mentally.

- Product search: Sometimes the customer doesn’t know where he/she can get the product. But, as Daraz is a market place online retail online platform, it has every type of products and categories. Customer can easily search hi/her product in Daraz website.
• Secured and best product: Daraz ensures heavy packing as a result the customer’s ordered item doesn’t get damaged and be safe and secure in the box. On the other hand, customers can see the seller’s rating and reviews in Daraz website while making an order. By considering the best rating and review of the sellers the customer can purchase the best product from the best seller.

ii. To sellers: Sellers can be benefited in the following ways-

• Business expansion: A seller can expand his business alongside his physical if he can make things sell online. For example: If a seller runs his business through a physical store in Dhanmondi, then his customers are people in and around Dhanmondi area. But, if he sells things online, he can get the customers from different areas and even outside Dhaka. His customer base will expand, as a result his profit will increase.

• Startup sellers: The sellers who want to start a business and have nice business idea as well as products but can’t due to lack of capital or finance to take a rent and manage physical store. As a result, they can’t reach their target customers with their products. But they can carry on their business through this Daraz online portal and they won’t have to bear the cost of renting and managing a physical store.

• Advertisement: When a seller lists his/her products on Daraz portal, those products become a part of Daraz as Daraz generates its revenue by selling those products. To promote those products Daraz makes advertisement side by side the seller’s products get advertised simultaneously.

3.3 Competitive Environment in Bangladesh

Time is regarded important and precious. People want to make the best use of their moment in this competitive universe. Time is regarded to be cash after all. With the accessibility of the quick and inexpensive internet, individuals in Bangladesh are gradually creating a culture of using the internet as part of their daily lives. People save time and effort with a few clicks, from paying bills to ordering food from restaurants. With this shift in the day to day lives of the people, online shops are gradually becoming more common and popular. We are here to provide you with data about Bangladesh’s top and finest online shopping location so you can have a nice shopping experience online.

Besides Daraz.com There 23 online businesses that are considered to be the direct and indirect competitors of Daraz according to their business pattern. Direct competitors are those that are doing business in the same that Daraz is doing and Indirect competitors that are doing business on specific products or in different ways.

Among these competitors shoppersBD, PriyoShop, Giftghor, Ajkerdeal, ClickBD, Iferi, Ajkeroffer, and Aponzone are the top rivals of Daraz.com. They are directly competing with Daraz in different product categories and more recently chaldal.com is competing with Daraz in the grocery sector.
3.4 Market Opportunity

We know that market opportunity refers to the scope and space where the company wants to operate from which it wants to avail all the financial opportunities.

Now we know that Daraz is online market place retail and it runs its business all over the place of the market. It is not a highly concentrated market or a market niche. This website includes all type of products and categories, so the whole online market place is its field of operation and it generates all the revenues from here.

Till now Daraz Bangladesh is the number one leading company with few direct and indirect competitors. E-commerce is flourishing in Bangladesh as people are getting access to internet easily and people are getting more comfortable in shopping online due to lack of time, cost and energy. That brings a huge opportunity or scope for e-commerce.

Though there is some fact that should be surveyed and analyzed before starting business in the e-commerce platform. These factors are-

i. Availability and type of products: You must know the type of products that you want do business with. Because all type of products will not bring you the same type of opportunity. For example: Though many people buy electronics items online yet people don’t find buying electronic items reliable from any kind of online platform as people can’t test it physically. On the other hand, clothing fashion products are running very well.

   You also have to be aware of the availability of the products you are doing business with. If you don’t have available products in hand you won’t be able to meet the demand of the customers.

   In Bangladesh not many companies are doing business of all kind of product categories. Maximum companies are doing business with 2 or 3 product categories where Daraz is doing business of more than 10 categories of products. So, the scope is huge.

ii. Competitors: Daraz is the leading online platform in Bangladesh with a few small indirect competitors and a few big fish that are recently doing good in the market. Also, now Daraz is financially strong as Alibaba is the investor. None of the competitors has this much financial resources like Daraz has. As the largest online company having Alibaba above the head as investor, it has access to a great financial resource and human resources.

iii. Regulatory trends: Daraz doesn’t do any type of business that goes against and conflict with the regulatory system of Bangladesh as well as its business. Daraz is doing business of the products that are authorized by the Bangladesh government. On the other hand, you must consider tax law, customer law, and domestic law before searching market opportunity.

iv. Target market: This is the main factor that actually brings the revenue and the target market is the ultimate market scope for a business organization. If you don’t select your target market properly according to your product, you won’t be operating in the market in the long run.
As Daraz is doing business of all kind of products, Daraz’s target market is very diversified and huge. So, the market opportunity is also good for Daraz.

v. Available online tools: Before searching an online market opportunity you must know whether you have the proper online tool or not to serve your target market. Even if you have market opportunity but an improper online tool won’t do any good and generate revenue for you.

Till now Daraz has the best online tool as it is very much detailed which ensures good perceptibility of the products, security and flexibility.

3.5 Competitive Advantage

Daraz is the leading online platform in Bangladesh with the mother company above its head. It is also the first biggest online company that is conducting business in the market. Some competitive advantages are giving it the edge to be the number one in the market. Those advantages are described as follows-

i. First mover advantage: Though AjkerDeal started as the first online business in Bangladesh in 2011 but it could gain trust and reliability as many people were not comfortable with online business. Many people knew about Daraz and its business as it was a multinational. After Daraz’s arrival in Bangladesh the trend of online shopping started and people started shopping from Daraz. As a result, Daraz got the first mover advantage, and it has also got access to different resources.

ii. Technological advantage: Daraz is operating its business with a very detailed, user friendly and intelligent website. Sellers can list their products with ease, can manage their products, orders and finance. Customers can search and order various products very easily that they want to buy by searching product’s name, seller’s shop and also by searching category wise.

iii. Human resource: This is the most important resource that an organization must have access, in order to survive in the market. A talented and hard-working pool of employees can push an organization to the edge and beyond. As a fast mover and being a multinational company, it already has a big pool of talented employees and the company is hiring many more. Also talented applicants are getting eager to join this company as online business is booming in our country and we are hoping that most part of the business will be online based in the near future.

iv. Financial advantage: Daraz was already a multinational company before the acquisition of Alibaba Group as it was and still is operating its business in Pakistan, Myanmar, India, Srilanka, and Nepal. So, it came to Bangladesh with a huge finance. And now it has Alibaba Group as its parent company to invest on it.
v. Huge product base and less Switching: Daraz has every type of products and categories in its website whereas most online based organizations in Bangladesh are doing business of single or two to three product categories. For that reason, customers find any product they want to purchase in Daraz website. Not only that, there are so many sellers are doing business of the same product that the customers looking for. So, if the customers don’t find the product good for them from a particular seller, they can switch sellers within Daraz platform but not Daraz itself. The switching ratio from Daraz to other online platforms is very low.

Similarly, it also keeps track of people who regularly use the internet so as to identify its potential customers.

ii. Market Targeting: Targeting is the selection method of market segments that will become the focus of the marketing programs of the company. Targeting allowed Daraz to channel its funds and operations to the most appealing sections of the market. Targeting will also enable Daraz to solve the restricted marketing budget issue by concentrating on a few client sections rather than the industry as a whole.

There are three kinds of strategy that involve (1) Undifferentiated strategy, (2) Differentiated strategy, and (3) Concentrated strategy. Daraz used a differentiated approach to offer distinct products in distinct market. For example, it provides children’s toys and games as well as children’s diapers and napkins, while it provides a variety of electronic gadgets and fashion products for youth and teenagers.

iii. Market Positioning: Positioning is all about creating a brand image in the mind of customers. Daraz has tried to position itself as an online shopping site that offers premium and branded products at best prices. This helps to differentiate itself from its competitors and to achieve market leadership.

Repositioning a brand or product means altering its place in the minds of the consumer. Daraz has rebranded itself from Kaymu to Daraz trying to change the consumers’ perception of a brand. This rebranding is done to position itself as a premium brand. However, this rebranding has created confusion among customers in the target market. To avoid this confusion, Daraz is involving in various activities such as “Mobile week”, case study in educational institution, Daraz Ten i.e. offering 10% discount in every item purchased etc.

In case of Daraz, first of all, there is no telling that it has a very friendly culture and work environment that allows the employees to work very freely and thing beyond their normal capacity. The work place is very flexible and open and there are tables for every department without any kind of partitions.

On the other hand, Daraz provides necessary equipment to their employees without any delay that are necessary for works. But as Daraz Bangladesh is comparatively a new growing company it’s still analyzing things that need to be developed.

Management team:

The management team is the group of individuals that operate at the higher levels of an organization and have day to day responsibilities for managing other individuals and maintaining responsibility for key business functions.

The management team is also generally responsible for putting together the business strategy and ensuring the business objectives are met. The management team is held accountable by the company’s board of directors.

In case of Daraz the management team structure is flat and consists of MD, COO, D-Force, CCO, PR-Head, CFO and HR-Head. They are the decision maker together and they control order of command. A flow chart of the Daraz manage team is given below-

Chapter 04 (Industry Structure Analysis of Daraz)
Industry structure analysis represents the nature of the players in an industry, nature of the substitute products, the barriers to entry and the relative strength of consumers and suppliers. To analyze the industry structure of Daraz we are going to describe these things later on. First, let’s have a look on the diagram of the industry structure analysis the we will relate those with Daraz.

- Rivalry among existing competitor: Currently Daraz is holding about 40% of the market share in Bangladesh. No other competitors are holding this much market share in the e-commerce industry as Daraz. So, it is very obvious that Daraz is the market leader in Bangladesh. But other e-commerce platforms are doing business on particular areas or products whereas Daraz is doing business in all over the place. For example, Pikaboo does only electronics’ business, Rokomari does only book’s business but Daraz does business of every kind of products. So, in that sense these types of other platforms are directly competing with Daraz for particular product segments yet they are not the direct competitors of Daraz as they are not doing the same business as Daraz does.

- Threat of new entrants: In the e-commerce industry in Bangladesh the threat of new entrants is very high as this sector is growing and booming. On the other hand, this business is easy in a sense that if anyone can develop the website and an application for mobile or tab, he is set to do business though it will take time for him to expand the business. Like Daraz, sellers will do business in his website by getting them registered in the platform. Besides, there is no tension of physically doing business, maintaining stock, deciding price and so on. These tasks will be done by sellers. After 10 years this industry will be established and very much successful as people are depending more and more on the internet and they will get comfortable shopping in the internet gradually. This industry seems very much lucrative and the threat of new entrant is very high as well.

- Bargaining power of buyers: In the e-commerce industry, there is less or no bargaining power of buyers because the price is set by the sellers who are doing business in the platform. We can see many sellers are doing the same business and they can see each other’s price. So, most of the sellers set more or less the same price for the same product to sustain in the competition. This limits the switching option for the buyers. So, the buyers may purchase from different sellers but platform remains the same. Yes, buyers have the option to explore different platforms but the same sellers are doing business in different platforms and setting the price in the same way. On the other hand, the buyers or sellers have no option to communicate with each other about the products. So, basically the buyers have no bargaining power in this industry. The only way is buyers can ignore this e-commerce platform and buy the product physically.

- Threats of substitute products: There is a threat of substitute products in a sense that you can buy a product either physically or through different e-commerce portals. As we are discussing the e-commerce industry, let’s say a product can be bought using different portals. So, here in this industry you have different source to buy a product. But if you want to buy substitute products then you can buy them from either of these platforms (Direct competitors). Basically, you will find both the main product and the substitute product in Daraz portal as well as direct competitor’s portals. So, as Daraz does business of all kind of products, there are no threats of substitute products but the direct competitors.

- Bargaining power of suppliers: Basically, Daraz has no connection with suppliers as the sellers are doing business in Daraz platform in their own way with their own products in exchange for commission just for using the platform. Daraz doesn’t have its products of its own. So, there is no question of supplies and supplier in the business. The sellers may have connection with suppliers, so, the bargaining power of supplier can influence sellers but not Daraz or other e-commerce platforms that are doing business in the same way.
Chapter 05 (Value Chain Analysis of Daraz)
Value chain refers to the set of activities performed by an organization or an industry to transform raw materials into final goods or services.

!Value chain diagram

Value chain involves 5 steps where the suppliers supply the raw materials to the manufacturers. Then manufacturers manufacture the products. The products then carried away by the distribution channels to various retailers. Finally, the customers buy their intended products from the retailers. In the first 4 stages before reaching the final buyer, the products are added with values in each stage. That is why it is called the firm’s value chain.

But in case of Daraz, things are a little bit different. As Daraz has no products of its own, and it earns revenue by letting sellers use its portal in exchange for commissions, the value chain of Daraz or other e-commerce platforms is a little bit different from physical business. Its value chain starts mainly when a customer makes an order. The steps or the process of Daraz value chain is discussed as follows-

Step 1: The seller (Basically sellers are the supplier of readymade products in e-commerce platforms) either packs the product with Daraz packaging materials or directly sends the product to the drop off and packaging hub when an order comes. If the seller doesn’t pack the product then the delivery man of Daraz packs the product. Though the products are already packed with company’s packaging material, yet Daraz makes a heavy packaging so that the products remain safe while carrying by the delivery man.

Step 2: Then the delivery man (Distributor) carries the product to the customer (Final buyer) as early as possible.

In this process three types of values are added-
1. The customers are getting safe, intact, and undamaged products.
2. They are getting the product in the shortest possible time without any hassle.
3. They can save product’s searching cost, conveyance cost, and physical and mental energy cost.

Daraz Value chain:

Chapter 06 (Business Strategy Analysis of Daraz)
Strategic analysis is a process that involves researching an organization’s business environment within which it operates. Strategic analysis is essential to formulate strategic planning for decision making and smooth working of the organization. With the help of strategic planning, the objectives or goals that are set by the organization can be fulfilled.

There are two types of business environments-

i. Internal environment: Refers to the internal strengths and weaknesses.

ii. External environment: Refers to the threats and opportunities that comes from the environment outside the organization.

This environmental analysis is known as the SWOT analysis.

In this case the SWOT analysis of Daraz is-

Strength:
- High security
- Feasible modes of payments
- Offers ubiquity to customers
- Diverse branded product’s category

Weakness:
- Low profit margin
- Insincere employees
- Lack of proper monitoring
Opportunities:

- Growing e-commerce sales
- Rapid growth of internet user base

Threats:

- Security issue
- Increase in online retailers
- Social media business

On the other hand, business also refers to a set of plans for achieving long-term return on the capital invested or a plan for making profit in business firm. There are five generic business strategies. We now will see these five strategies relating to Daraz and also which strategy Daraz pursues to make profits-

Differentiation: It is the way how a firm uphold their products or services to the customers in more unique and distinguishing way so that customers can easily differentiate the firm’s products from those of competitors.

Daraz differentiates itself from the competitor by its unique website or portals. No other online portal in Bangladesh is as unique as it is. The portals are very easy to understand, operate and detailed both for sellers and customers. Besides, Daraz is differentiating itself through its delivery system though the delivery system of Daraz is yet to be improved and more efficient. But in this country various situations hampers fastest delivery in the shortest possible time.

Strategy of cost competition: It refers to offering products or services in less price than of the competitors. In this way business firms take cost leadership in the market.

Though setting the price of the product in Daraz portal is completely in seller’s hand, Daraz launches various campaigns in a very frequent way, offers coupons, vouches and free shipping just to offer products in less price. Daraz also motivates sellers so that they use different promotional tools by themselves to increase the order level.

Scope strategy: It refers to competing in the global market rather than competing in the local market or national market.

Daraz is a multinational company from the very beginning even before starting its operation in Bangladesh. Before Bangladesh, it has been operating in Srilanka, Nepal, Myanmar and Pakistan. Recently Chinese company Alibaba has acquired Daraz.
On the other hand, Daraz doesn’t do focused or niche marketing. It has spread its business by concentrating in the business all types of products and categories except for illegal products. So, the scope of business is very huge for Daraz.

Customer intimacy: It refers to developing intimate ties or relationship with the customers in order to increase the switching cost.

Customers can find any product they want in Daraz portal whether the product is related or unrelated. There are so many sellers doing business of the same product. So, if the customer wants to switch, he/she might switch the seller but he/she is still remaining in Daraz portal. So, the chance of switching to other portals is very less. Also, Daraz provides so many offerings to customers that the customers won’t intend to switch unless or until he/she have a negative experience.

On the other hand, Daraz has the provision of giving the customers chance to return the product within five business days after purchasing the product if the customer doesn’t like the product or face any dispute. Customers can also order products with maximum quantity of five pieces within the same delivery charge. Customers also can communicate with the seller through comment box regarding products. Before ordering something, customers can also see sellers rating and reviews.

10.1 Recommendations

It is essential for businesses to outperform other businesses in this competitive market and also to set a standard that is not readily achieved by any new enterprises. The finding suggests that if a large and well-known business settles in Bangladesh, Daraz has a very slim chance of stopping sales fall. Daraz needs to build a loyal and happy client base in order to have a sustainable future. The factors that work as obstacles to the development and sustainability of Daraz and the suggested variables are:

- First, they have to guarantee the quality of their product. Even if they have fewer vendors, but the quality of the item is excellent client, they will shop longer and will not readily move to other ecommerce locations. They must therefore have excellent quality products that match their business objective.
- They struggle to deliver faster or emergency deliveries because they don't have their own shipping team. With moment, as this business has grown larger. It is high time a powerful private shipping team and better follow-up teams were created to guarantee timely deliveries. So, the timely delivery issue must be addressed properly.
- While selecting the pricing strategy, the firm must bear in mind that its price matches present market prices. Price must be sufficiently competitive to affect clients to buy Daraz product. If the cost is high, the argument should be valid. Like a good quality item, the cost may be greater. But then again, the product's quality must be guaranteed.
- Many clients have complained that client service is unsatisfied. That means they aren't available, follow-ups aren't done properly, replies aren't as prompt as expected, and they don't have enough product or process data to respond quickly. Every day, an enormous amount of calls and requests are obtained. Therefore, to ensure effective and prompt service from the department, the number of agents should be increased.
- Another way to support the client base is to offer distinctive products and offers. Offers have to be a kind of one. So that client will believe only about Daraz shopping as there is no option as such.
- While including any seller into the Daraz seller account, every seller should be verified to hold the standard. After reviewing the seller and selling prospects they should have the access to open a seller account and inactive seller should be removed from Daraz to hold the image of the organization and to main the organizational standard.
- Finally, saving its sales fall when large businesses begin operating in Bangladesh will result in excellent relations with their vendors and distribution channels (delivery partners) and brand reliability for clients. It is a must for them to ensure high-quality service.
10.2 Conclusion

Finally, we can conclude that Daraz currently has a lot of revenues as there are no better options. But there is a high likelihood that clients will change and their sales will reduce when there will be a better option. Many don't consider it worthy of reliability or trust. There are very few and insignificant reasons for shopping back from Daraz. It is therefore high time that Daraz improve its service offerings and created a loyal client base. So, if a large business, like Amazon, chooses to begin operating in Bangladesh, it will have its faithful client base. This industry is rapidly increasing and unpredictable in the mind of clients is always wiser to prepare for the long term and create a credible, powerful brand picture.
